

COOLIDGE GIVES SON $50,000 AS WEDDING GIFT

Trust Fund Has Been Established for Newly Wedded Pair

DETAILS ARE LACKING

It is Believed, However, That Eventually John Will Get
The Entire Amount

PLAINVILLE, Conn., Sept. 24.— When Florence Trumbull and John Coolidge, newlyweds, return from their honeymoon they will find $50-000 awaiting them, the gift of Calvin Coolidge, father of the bridegroom.
A close friend of the Trumbull family disclosed to International News Service today that the former President had established a trust fund for the amount above stated as a present to the bridal couple.
While specific details were unavailable, it is understood that within a certain number of years, the principal will be at the disposal of John.
And in tune with this gift from the Coolidge side of the latest romantic liaison, Governor John H. Trumbull, father of the bride, was reported as planning to settle a large sum on his daughter.

Looking economies square in the face, nobody has ever imagined that a Connecticut heiress and the son of a former President, both reared in comparative comfort, could subsist on a thirty-odd dollars a week. This is the stipend that John is earning as a clerk in the offices of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in New Haven. However, it is said that a raise in salary is to be given him on his return to duty.
But today the question of dollars and cents is far from the minds of the honeymoon couple who are "somewhere in America." With a State trooper as chauffeur, Florence and John weathered a storm of festive confetti and rice to speed away from the colorful wedding reception on the emerald green lawn of the Trumbull estate. At Hartford, the honeymooners changed to Florence's red roadster.
Friends expect that the pair will motor through New England. The fact that both John and Florence love dancing suggests that they will stop for a day or so at roadside inns which promise entertainment.

DOVE OF PEACE SITS UPON THE FERRY, WM. E. DORON

By The Stroller

The dove of peace is hovering above the ferryboat, William E.
Doron, and everything is serene on the Del-a-ware.
The "battle" between "Captain" Doron and his husky crew has ended with the honors about even.
After a day's idleness the staunch little craft resumed belching steam and her propellers began to again churn the waters as hawsers were drawn taught straining to release her.
It all happened this way:
The crew just naturally wanted more money.
Mr. Doron just naturally said, "I can't afford to pay it."
The crew says, "We'll quit work unless our demands are met." Mr. Doron said, "I'll tie the boat up and have the company dissolved."
Then there was a marking of time on both sides.
Mr. Doron gave public notice that after the last trip Sunday night the ferry would be withdrawn from service.
The crew consulted with heads of their trade organizations and were told what rates of wages they should receive.
Mr. Doron consulted with his attorney in Burlington and correspondence was produced showing that steps would be taken to dissolve the company.
The press was called in by Mr.
Doron and told what he planned to do. Books were produced to show that money was being lost every day even at the lower scale of wages.
Sunday night arrived and the ferry made her last trip. Fires were banked and the craft was made fast to her dock. The crew wanted to be paid but Mr. Doron said, "No. It isn't legal on Sunday. I'll give you your money, Monday."
Monday morning the warring factions got together and the differences were adjusted. The crew says they got an increase.
Mr. Doron says nothing.
The ferry went back into service.
And all is serene on the Dela-ware.

Night

"THE STAR OF BENGAL"

Wednesday night will be a gala event in Hobokens' theatrical life.
Officially it will mark the opening of "The Star of Bengal" a sea play in which Joan Lowell, sea-going author, will play the leading role.
But unofficially it will be "Bucks County Night" for the play was written, put into shape, and concocted where the Delaware sweeps around New Hope and the tiny artists' colonies.
The play was written by Thompson Buchanan, of Lumberville, husband of Joan Lowell; the musical prelude or theme melody was composed by Douglas Paxson, of Hollcong, a young lawyer who is more than musically inclined, and the oil painting of Joan Lowell, which will hang in the lobby of the Lyric Theatre, was done by Stanley Reckless, of Solebury.
But that is not all. Joan Lowell, herself, is now a confirmed resident of

WORLD SERIES THUMBNAILED

Athletics' Infield Has Some Dependable Material For World Contest

By Henry McLemore

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The coming World Series between Philadelphia and Chicago may not settle the reparation issue or solve the Arab problem but it will go a long way toward establishing the real merit of the Philadelphia pitching staff.
Grove, Walberg, Earnshaw, Quinn, Ehmke, Rommel, Shores and Yerkes.
Just how good are these boys? Are they as formidable as those stalwarts boasted by the Athletics in 1917? Is Lefty Grove a really great pitcher or just a "Chunker" with blinding speed?
Is Earnshaw more effective than Grove? And will the Cub's right-handed batting order wreak havoc with Connie's left-handed ace? These and a lot more are the questions that have been going the rounds since the Quaker City lads began blasting their way to the top of the American heap.
The series will no doubt settle most of them.
Connie Mack's Plans
To us the majority's belief that Connie Mack is pinning his faith in left-handers thus preparing for a ride to a fall, is partly wrong. Why should the Athletics leaders place more dependence in Grove and Walberg, his ace southpaws, than in those honest-to-goodness right-handers, Earnshaw and Quinn. Earnshaw is rated by many experts and players as a much better pitcher than Grove. He has great speed and a fine head. Quinn is a veteran that knows all the ins and outs of the mound business and is, in addition, a split-baller—a type of flinger that is highly effective. If Grove and Walberg prove disastrous what is to keep Mack from calling on George and John Pincus? It seems to us that Mr. McGillicuddy is mighty well heeled anyway you look at the matter. And Ehmke has been going strong as of late which means another right-hander, not to mention Rommel and Shores.
Following are thumb-nail sketches of the much-discussed Athletic pitchers:
Robert Moses Grove—Born in Lona-coming, Md., March 6, 1900. Bats and throws left-handed. Height, 6:02½.

Weight, 180. Never played baseball until ten years ago. Joined the Martinsburg club of the Blue Ridge league in 1920 but was sold to Baltimore, where he remained until 1925 when he was purchased at a fancy price by the Athletics. Has led American league pitchers in strike-outs for three seasons. His banner year of whiffing batters came at Baltimore when he struck out 330.
George (Rube) Walberg—Born in Seattle, Wash., July 27, 1899. Bats and throws left-handed. Height, 6:01.
Weight, 185. Pitched for Portland in Pacific Coast League in '22 and was sold to the New York Giants the following year. Pitched but five innings for the Giants before being acquired by Philadelphia by the waiver route.
Sent to Milwaukee on option in 1924 but has been a successful pitcher with the A's since that time. Has great curve ball.
George Livingston Earnshaw—Born in New York City, Feb. 15, 1900. Bats and throws right-handed. Height 6:04.
Weight 185. Graduated from Swarthmore, having distinguished himself in football and baseball. Joined Baltimore Orioles in 1924 and after great success with that club came to Philadelphia in 1928.
John Pincus Quinn—Alleged to have been born in Hazleton, Pa., July 5, 1885, but rumors have him at least ten years older. Bats and throws right-handed. One of the few spitballers left in game. Height 6:00. Weight, 196.
Has been pitching since 1903, seeing service with the New York Yankees, Boston National, Baltimore Federal leaguers and Vernon, Calif., club where he remained until 1918 when he reported to the White Sox. The old National Commission awarded Pincus to the Yanks in 1919 where he remained for three seasons. Traded to Boston, he stayed with the Red Sox until mid-season of 1925 when the A's acquired him on waivers.
Edwin Amicus Rommel—Born in Baltimore, Sept. 13, 1897. Bats and throws from the right side. Height,

COUNTY TEACHERS
FAVOR GENERAL
INSTITUTE PLAN

Choose System of Holding General Session and Some Group Conferences

AT FALL GATHERING

Interesting Address Given By A. O. Roorbach, of William Penn High School

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 24.—Replies to a questionnaire submitted by County Superintendent J. Harry Hoffman at the first fall meeting of the Bucks County Teachers' Association at the opening session Saturday morning revealed that slightly over 50 per cent of the teachers in attendance at the time are in favor of reverting to the old system of holding general sessions at the annual county institutes, while the remainder favored holding a part general session and suggested having group conferences similar to those held last fall.
Superintendent Hoffman briefly outlined the advantages and the objections to holding the group sessions, one objection being that often teachers fail to attend the conference to which they belong. They prefer hearing a lecture by a certain speaker and in so doing sacrifice hearing lectures which were meant for their particular needs.
These points were brought out during a conference with the teachers preceding the two addresses of the morning. Importance of receiving the proper amount of semester hours in the summer schools was stressed by Mr. Hoffman. Both Mr. Hoffman and his assistants also attempted to impress upon the teachers the importance of having their monthly reports filed on time.
Announcement was made also by Mr. Hoffman that institute this year will be held the week beginning November 10. Suggestion was made by Mr. Hoffman that an exhibit of the work of the school children be held in the Doylestown High School gymnasium during institute week. He said he feels the teachers of the various districts will benefit by seeing what is accomplished by the children of the other districts.
The first address of the morning was delivered by A. O. Roorbach, of the William Penn High School, Harrisburg, who also taught under Dr.
Carmon Ross in the summer school at State College, who spoke on "The Use of the Work Book in Social Studies." Mr.
Roorbach confined his remarks mostly to the teaching of history, placing emphasis on the belief that information gleaned only from the text will not give the child the desired information.
The old time method, said Mr. Roorbach, of the teaching by assigning so many pages of the text to be covered for the next lesson no longer works to satisfaction. The old custom was to have the pupils recite once during a class period of 45 minutes. After the student has performed his or her part, it was almost impossible to retain interest in that child's part.
It has been found, continued Mr.
Roorbach, that dramatization of the subject works out very well. He said, however, that teachers often misdirect their pupils in the dramatization when they try to have them dramatize non-contemporaries. It is important, he added, that the characters to be dramatized are contemporaries.
Cartoon drawing was also suggested by the speaker. Some pupils have the ability to draw and at the same time have no ideas. If this is the case, it is the duty of the teacher to provide the child with ideas. The use of recapitulation charts was also recommended by Mr. Roorbach.
"One of the failings of the teachers today," said Mr. Roorbach, "is that they do not take note of the individual needs of the pupils. The pupils should be directed to jot down all of those points that are not clear in his mind and then at some time outside of the class the teacher should be approached and asked to explain these difficulties.
In the past many pupils have failed in their work simply because the teachers have failed to make clear certain essentials."
Class assignments were also suggested by Mr. Roorbach. There can be three assignments, Classes A, B and C, and these are to be completed in their reverse order. After each class has been completed the child should be ready to take up the following assignment and after the assignments are all completed the child should be able to give a comprehensive review of the subject covered at that time.
However, the assignment method, said Mr. Roorbach, does not eliminate the necessity of giving lectures. There are certain things that must be explained by the teachers.
In instructing a class in this way the matter of discipline is a mere item. The class room differs from that of the one of the past when the teacher sat at his desk and called upon his pupils for their recitations.
The class room now is a bee hive or activity. Some of the pupils are en-

EDUCATION PAYS

Word comes from several of the leading universities that the usual fall house-cleaning, or to vary the metaphor, the weeding-out process, is to take place somewhat earlier than usual because of their overcrowded condition. It had been thought that recently adopted more rigid requirements for entrance, with abolition of the privilege of admission under "conditions," would serve to reduce the number of new students, but most educational institutions have more than they can conveniently accommodate. The present situation is in striking contrast to that of only a few years ago, when the colleges were competing with one another for students.

It is no longer necessary to urge young men to seek the advantages of academic or technical training. They appreciate its value and indeed its absolute necessity if they are to make progress in the race of life. The dean of Boston college has completed an extensive study of an education's cash value. From examinations of a large number of cases he puts the average maximum yearly income of the untrained man at $1,200; of the high school graduate at $2,200 and of the college graduate at $6,000. The total earnings of the three types up to the age of sixty are given as $45,000, $78,000 and $100,000 respectively. The untrained man, according to the dean, begins to decline toward dependence after the age of fifty, while the college man does not reach this point until he is sixty.

The possessor of an education reaps benefits far more important than any money can give, but it is evident that even from the financial viewpoint, education does pay.

MOTOR EDUCATION

The alarming rate at which deaths due to motor accidents are increasing make it plain that nothing but concerted action can control the evil. A recent survey of New York City shows that out of 234 accidents which occurred in a single month, 94 were due to careless driving on city streets. It is a depressing fact that of these 50 were children.

The same dangers lurk in every city, and in lesser degree in every town and country road. For the highway accident situation in general, there is but one remedy, education. Three classes of persons should be affected by such education: parents, children, and those who drive machines.

People need to know the traffic laws, and further, they should be put constantly on their guard. A development of the sense of courtesy can do much to obviate the danger of smashups. When caution becomes the rule rather than the exception, the country need not give up each year its needless toll of lives through motor accidents.

Many a checkered career ends in a striped suit.

A TIP FOR THE TIRED BUSINESS MAN

On a hot summer day Jimmy Gleason, well known actor, playwright and dialogue writer for Pathe, combines business with pleasure when he dictates to Sydney Heinze, his secretary, in the swimming pool of his new Beverly Hills home in California.

Pointing for Championship

Head Coach Howard Jones, left, and Captain Nate Barrager, right, of the University of Southern California are getting their heads together early this year in attempting to repeat their successful season of 1928, when they won the Pacific Coast honors and made a national rep for themselves. Faced with the prospect of playing California, Stanford and Notre Dame on successive week-ends, the team will have to be good.

LIVE where you work

Many people employed in Bristol are commuting to and from their work each day. This means an unnecessary expense and a waste of time. They must leave home earlier and return later than if they lived in the town where they are employed. They have less time for pleasure and less time to spend with their families than if they resided here.

Why commute?

Bristol as a place of residence offers every opportunity to be found in a large city. There are paved streets, sanitary sewers, good schools and churches of every denomination; periodic collection of ashes and garbage, police protection and ample space for outdoor recreation.

Housing is adequate

Housing facilities are adequate to meet the needs of all. There are dwellings here which will meet the needs of almost every family. Big six room houses with all modern conveniences including front porches and rear yards. They rent as low as $25 per month, and are comparable in type to those in the larger cities renting for nearly twice the amount.

You're a part of the community

If you live in Bristol you are a part of the community. You are not lost in the crowds of a great city where often times your next door neighbor doesn't know you. Live in Bristol and participate in its affairs and you will find life much more worth the living.

"Look Your Best"

Here's a screen star whose first job was as a grocery clerk, his second as an orange packer and his third as an automobile salesman. Little enough opportunity in those jobs to show talent for acting, but Bill Boyd got a chance to act as an extra in one of Cecil B. De Mille's pictures, attracted the attention of that well known director, and from then on climbed rapidly. Now he's a popular Pathe star in "he man" parts. Which goes to show that you can't keep a good man riding in flippers always.

THE New PACKARD STANDARD EIGHTS offer the outstanding luxury, comfort and engineering improvements which the world expects from Packard

THE new Packard Standard Eights offer important engineering advances and greatly enriched fittings and appointments. They are more beautiful, more convenient, more luxurious than ever before.

These superb cars, outstanding in the fine car field, are now on display at our show rooms. We want you to see them—drive them and then compare them point by point with your ideal of what a truly fine car ought to be.

You will find that they differ from the costlier Packards only in size, power and degree of individuality available in color, upholstery and details of appointment. For the new Standard Eights are Packards through and through—distinguished, smooth and fleet.

Eleven Roomy and Luxurious Models

The new Packard Standard Eight line includes eleven beautiful body types. Prices at the factory range from $2375 for the popular Five-Passenger Sedan to $2775 for the Seven-Passenger Sedan-Limousine.

All models embody the new inside, adjustable sun visors, adjustable driver's seat and steering gear, newly-perfected shatter-proof glass, dashboard lockers—and the improved powerplant with its four-speed transmission and still further refined Packard straight-eight engine.

Packard Transportation Costs No More

If you want a new Packard Standard Eight there is no reason why you should not have it. Operation and maintenance costs are not greater because first cost is more. Even if first cost is twice as much, final cost is no greater if the better car is driven twice as long.

Analyze ownership costs in the light of these facts and you will find that you, too, can enjoy the luxury of Packard transportation—at no greater expense.

Thousands of motorists have found this true. Two out of three who buy Packard Standard Eights give up other makes of cars to do so!

We cordially invite you to see the new Packard Standard Eights—and to drive one. We will gladly explain the costs of ownership, so that you can compare them with your present motoring expenses. Your old car will be accepted as cash, and you may buy out of income if you prefer.

MRS. GEORGE M. HEISEY
"I suffered from a dreadful case of rheumatism which attacked me suddenly in my knees," said Mrs. George M. Heisey, Old Road, Avon, Pa. "For seven months I was utterly helpless; unable to walk; unable to rest and had to have constant attention. I lost my appetite and became extremely nervous."
"Then I was induced to try Konjola. After taking three bottles of this medicine I felt better than in months. The pains had become less severe and the soreness, stiffness and swelling were rapidly disappearing. My appetite returned and my nerves became quiet and soothed. Konjola certainly worked wonders in my case and that is why I praise it to all who suffer as I did."

reputation made by Joan Lowell when she wrote that memorable book, "In the Cradle of the Deep." The book created not a little stir, certain nautical authors claiming that it was quite preposterous, to say the least.

Christopher Morley, who desires to be known as a former newspaperman first, and as a stager of old-time dramatic plays next, is the sponsor for this play. He and Cleon Throckmorton, co-conspirators in reviving mellow memories of the days beyond recall, are quite fascinated and charmed by this particular dramatic contribution.

It is understood that "The Star of Bengal" will contain certain phases of the life-story of Joan Lowell, and it is in keeping that Joan plays the stellar role.

The old Lyric Theatre, which is but a roll from the more ancient Rialto, where another of Chris Morley's plays is running forever and aye, is a busy scene now. Rehearsals are going ahead every morning, afternoon and evening, in order that the play be in good shape when the opening date arrives.

The crew has been going through its lines and business on an improvised stage in the old foundry on River Street, which is the headquarters of the Hoboken gang. The captain and officers, on the other hand, remembering that discipline comes first, even in shows, carries on its practice in solitary splendor. Even in plays, the officers and crews, it seems, do not mingle.

Mr. Buchanan has written several plays which have been creditably received and from all appearances, "The Star of Bengal" will be a feather in the cap of Lumberville.

SUBSTANTIAL CUT TO BE MADE IN FEDERAL TAXES

By Robert S. Thornburgh
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Another substantial slash in federal income taxes at the December Congress, to be effective March 15, appeared in sight today.

From sources close to Secretary Mellon it was learned that the Treasury would agree to a "substantial cut," which may run from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000.

Within a week tax experts will begin the preparation of the Treasury's plan for income tax reduction for the approval of Secretary Mellon. Today they declined to say where the reductions would be applied. It is anticipated, however, that the maximum net income on which earned income credit is allowed would be given special attention, looking to an increase.

In the 1928 revenue act this maximum was boosted from $20,000 to $30,000, but strong pressure has been brought to bear for placing the figure still higher and broadening the scope as fixed in the 1928 law.

"Student Activities As a Part of the Socialized Program" was the subject presented by Dr. D. E. D. Grizzell, of the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Grizzell left it clear with his audience that it is not only the school that is responsible for the welfare of the young people; there are factors outside the school. He, however, started with the class room which is fully recognized as one of the social influences of the child.

There are other influences equally important, but they are not fully recognized. Among them are the home room in the school and the various clubs of the school. These may include the reading clubs, aviation clubs and music clubs, in fact all clubs which provide for the social welfare of the child.

Another influence mentioned by Dr. Grizzell was the student patrol which is now fully recognized throughout the country.

Dr. Grizzell then told of some of the outside social influences. These included the inter-school events, including athletic and scholastic contests and the exchange of school papers and magazines.

In connection with athletics Dr. Grizzell said athletics should never interfere with the child's health. Boys not physically fit should not be permitted to play football for the simple reason that they are needed on the team. Speaking of the outside contacts, the speaker said that athletic and scholastic contests should at all times be of a high standard so as to widen the horizon of the child.

Another outside influence mentioned by Dr. Grizzell was the home, perhaps the most important. In connection with this Dr. Grizzell mentioned the wonderful influence the Frankford Fathers' Association has over the conduct of the boys. Dr. Grizzell has often visited that section of Philadelphia for the purpose of seeing how the boys of that particular high school conduct themselves outside the school. He said he rarely found them loitering on the streets or smoking cigarettes. The school does not make an edict to the effect that the boys are not to loiter on the streets or to smoke, but this comes from the wonderful influence exerted by the fathers' association.

The American Legion and the churches can also co-operate with the schools for the welfare of the children, said Dr. Grizzell.

A large number of pedagogical hints were presented when Mr. Roorbach spoke on "The Use of Historical Fiction as an Aid to the Teaching of Social Studies" at the opening of the afternoon session.

Again it was brought out that the text books do not contain the desired amount of information and this information can be procured by reading fiction based on historical foundations. Mr. Roorbach mentioned a large number of books which can be read and which will result in giving the pupil a large store of valuable information.

The last subject of the afternoon was presented by Dr. Grizzell. This was "Directed Learning," in which he showed that there is a great difference in directed learning and supervised study.

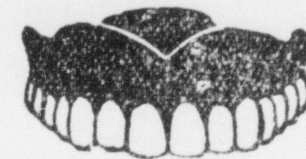

Announcement was made at the close of the meeting that the next meeting will be held in January.
